1 次の英文を読み、後の問いに答えなさい。

Long time ago, a cat lived in the castle with the royal* family. Her name was Princess Cat, and she was a very beautiful cat with fluffy* white hair and sky-blue eyes. She understood very well that she was beautiful, because everyone was always saying (1)so, and she always felt there was something special about her. In fact, she was quite certain that she was as royal as any human prince* or princess*.

Now, the one person in the castle who did not stop to admire* her or scratch* her behind the ears was the King's oldest son. He wasn't interested in the cat at all, so she was very angry. Princess the cat could do nothing (2A)to get his attention and to win his admiration*.

When he was sitting in the garden under a tree, she climbed it up and meowed* in distress* and pretended* that she was stuck and did not know how to return to the ground. Surely the prince would help her? But no. At first, he ignored* her. And then he moved to another spot in the garden because her meows* could not disturb* him there.

Once she went into his bedroom and sat down on his pillow*. She was comfortable there. But when he came to bed and saw her, he clapped* his hands and told the servant* to remove the pillow and the cat, and to bring him a fresh pillow without any cat hairs on it.

So, all of her attempts* to be noticed, admired, and loved by the prince, ended in dismal* failure*.

One day a human princess visited the castle. His eyes followed her everywhere she went.

Princess Cat certainly noticed how he was enchanted* by the human princess. And she was so sad that she went to hide down in the dark cellar*. The mice lived there. It was the only place she could go and could not hear the music and the laughter* of the ball* that was taking place* in the grand hall. The happy sounds made her sad, because she wasn't included in the human merry-making*.

Down in the cellar, she cried to herself.

"So, he hardly* notices Me! Correction*. He does not notice me one little bit! But when SHE's around, his eyes are stuck to her like glue*. What has she got that I haven't? Her eyes are grey* like a rainy day, but mine are sky blue. Her hair is straggly* brown, like mud*, but mine is all white and fluffy. And she walks like she is wearing clogs*, but I walk elegantly*. And have you heard her voice? She laughs like a hyena*, and she's not as smart as I am. The only thing she's got that I haven't is that she's a human.

It's so unfair. (3) [a human / , / he / love / were / if / would / I / me], not her. I know he would. He wouldn't be able to stop himself falling right in love with me. If only* I was a human princess. This isn't fair to us cats!"

Now, many old things were kept in the cellar. These included a statue of the goddess* of love, Aphrodite*. This Aphrodite heard that the cat was meowing pitifully* to herself and she spoke through the darkness.

"You are right. If only you were a human princess, he would fall in love with you at first glance*."

"Well, someone agrees (4a) me," meowed back the cat princess. "But it's not helpful, because I will never be a human princess. He'll never look (4b) me."

"Not so," answered Aphrodite. "Love conquers* all when I'm around. So, stop all this pitiful meowing. Get up! And go back to the ball!"

Princess the cat was cheered up by the words of the goddess, and so she rose to her four feet. (5)Not to her 4 feet, but to her 2 feet. And there was a swish of silk* and a gust of rose scented perfume*. This was strange. She didn't feel like this before.

She climbed the stairs back to the ground floor of the castle. And when she stepped back into the hallway*, right in front (4c) her was a mirror. She looked into the mirror and saw herself. She became a beautiful princess with sky-blue eyes and beautiful white hair.

She went into the hall just when the young people were looking for the next dance partner. Princess Cat, now human, was very glad (2B)to see that the Prince looked at her. He forgot the other princess and came to her and asked her for the next dance. And of course, she had perfect balance and danced most gracefully*. The couple danced together during the night, and in the morning, the young prince went to see his father the king (2C)to say that he was in love and wanted to marry the mystery* princess. The king who would do anything for his eldest son readily* agreed and set the wedding* day in a month.

During the month away, the former* cat went to live in the cellar, so nobody would see her and everybody would believe that she was a real human princess. She spent the time happily talking to Aphrodite about love, and wasn't hungry, because there were a lot of mice in the cellar.

On the day of her wedding, Aphrodite dressed her in a wonderful dress and did her hair like a fairy tale* princess. And she prepared a golden chariot* pulled by a pair of white horses to carry her up the hill to the temple of Aphrodite. And there, the wedding was going to take place.

The people came from all over the country and cheered! At the gates of the temple, she stepped down from the chariot and many people were delighted* by her beauty — all except for* one, and that was the other princess that the prince lost interest in so suddenly at the dance hall.

The mystery Princess who was formerly a cat was escorted* into the temple by the king's top general*. The prince was waiting (4d) her at the altar*. (6)The moment she dreamed of for so long would almost arrive!

But oh no! As Princess Cat was walking up the aisle*, she saw a mouse out of the corner of her eye! A little mouse came into the temple on her wedding day! Soon she caught him and gobbled* him up. The guests didn't see it before! (7)They were shocked and amazed!

When the princess cat realized her mistake, she felt ashamed*. And she ran up a tree and jumped onto the wall of the temple. Then, she jumped down the other side and ran into the forest, now changed, once again into a cat. (4e) a while, she sneaked back into* the castle to start her life again as a pampered* cat. It was much better than living alone in the forest. And she never again wished that she could be human.
